

RECORD MANAGEMENT - SCHOOL RECORDS POLICY CREEKSIDE K-9 COLLEGE

Last Ratified by School Council July 2022	Review Date July 2024	Responsible for Review School Council

PURPOSE

The purpose of this policy is to assist schools to understand and meet requirements for creating, storing and disposing of school records.

- To ensure Creekside K-9 College complies with legislation and DET policy and guidelines.
- To ensure records are stored safely and securely and only destroyed in accordance with the schedule.
- To ensure the privacy of all data collected by the school is protected.

SCOPE

Schools are responsible for creating, managing and disposing of school administration and student records.

Records must only be disposed of with written approval of the school's principal, after the minimum retention period has been met. (Note: short-term information created through normal administrative practice can be destroyed without needing the written approval of the principal).

As of July 2019, there is a 'freeze' on destroying records relating to child safety, health and wellbeing in schools and early childhood programs, until further notice.

Schools should also review the School Records Retention Guide (staff login required) which provides information on common school records and their minimum retention periods.

POLICY

Schools are responsible for creating, managing and appropriately disposing of public records in accordance with the Public Records Act 1973 \(Vic\), standards issued by the Public Record Office Victoria (PROV) and policy and guidance issued by the Department.

Record creation

Schools must create full and accurate records of school functions and activities, including records relating to:

- school governance

- operations
- the handling of incidents, complaints and investigations
- student management

This includes both hardcopy (paper) and electronic records.

Permanent and temporary records

Schools are responsible for creating and managing temporary and permanent records.

A temporary record is a record that must be retained for a certain period of time (ranging from 12 months to 65 years) and can only be destroyed once that period has expired with the written approval of the school's principal.

Permanent records must be transferred to the State Archives when no longer needed for day-to-day activities at the school.

Contact Records and Digitisation Services on 1800 359 140 or archives.records@education.vic.gov.au if you would like assistance to transfer permanent value records at your school.

Common school records and minimum retention periods

The School Records Retention Guide outlines how long common types of school records need to be kept, to assist schools in assessing if records are ready for destruction.

The information in this guide is regularly updated however if it does not contain a record you would like to know the required retention period of, or you require further advice, contact Records and Digitisation Services on 1800 359 140 or archives.records@education.vic.gov.au

Records storage and access

Schools must have systems and processes for managing electronic and hardcopy records to ensure the authenticity, security, reliability and accessibility of these records.

All records must be stored in safe and secure locations to ensure their integrity and accessibility. Permanent records must be stored in conditions that ensure their long-term preservation. Schools may contact Records and Digitisation Services to arrange the transfer of permanent records and historic records to the State Archives if no longer needed.

Records destruction

Schools must not dispose of:

- any records that are reasonably likely to be required in a legal proceeding
- any record that may be required for a current Freedom of Information request
- permanent records or records that are of historic value (for example, records created in the 1800s or school anniversary publications)

NOTE: As at July 2019, there is a 'freeze' on destroying records relating to child safety, health and wellbeing in schools and early childhood programs, until further notice.

Schools may dispose of temporary records that have reached the required retention period (the minimum period the records must be kept for before they can be legally destroyed). The principal must approve the disposal in writing to provide evidence of the disposal activity.

Some records created through normal administrative practice may be destroyed without approval once administrative use has ended. These records include:

- working papers

- drafts
- duplicate copies of records stored elsewhere
- short-term facilitative records (such as phone messages)
- unsolicited 'junk mail'

Schools must securely dispose of records and ensure electronic and hardcopy records are destroyed in a way that ensures the records are unreadable and irretrievable. The Department recommends the use of secure disposal bins for hardcopy records.

The School Records Retention Guide outlines how long different types of records need to be kept to assist you in assessing if records are ready for destruction.

Records that do not need to be archived — Normal Administrative Practice

Not all records need to be archived. Some records can be destroyed without following your school's formal destruction process to obtain approval from your principal. These records fall under a category known as Normal Administrative Practice (NAP).

NAP records include:

- working documents consisting of rough notes and calculations used only to assist in the preparation of other records such as correspondence and reports. For example, handwritten attendance rolls subsequently captured in CASES21.
- records of short term, temporary value. For example, a reminder note or list of things to do.
- additional copies of documents, emails and publications maintained for reference purposes. For example, duplicate copies of School Council papers.

Consider the following before you destroy a record:

- Is there any further administrative need to retain the record?
- Are others still using the record?
- If you believe it is just a duplicate copy, locate the original record prior to destroying the copy.
- Use a secure (locked) recycle bin to destroy NAP records that contain personal or sensitive information.

Refer to the chapter on Destruction of 'time-expired' records for guidance on how to formally dispose of records that are not considered to be NAP records.

Destruction of 'time-expired' records

Note: School principals must approve destruction of time-expired records.

Step 1 — Identify 'time-expired' records

Records become 'time-expired' if they have passed the 'minimum retention period' and are no longer required by your school. For example, the minimum retention period for finance batch reports is 7 years. Batch reports from the 2012 to 13 financial year 'expired' in July 2020. If the school no longer needs them and the principal approves their destruction, they may be securely destroyed.

For a list of common school record types and their minimum retention periods, refer to:

- School Records Retention Quick Reference Guide (staff login required)

For a full list of school record types and their minimum retention periods, refer to:

- School Records Retention guide (staff login required)

Step 2 — Prepare records for destruction

Create a list of records for destruction. The list should include a brief description of the records proposed for destruction and the appropriate record classification.

For a full list of school record types, their minimum retention periods and record classification, refer to:

- School Records Retention guide

Step 3 — Get principal approval to destroy records

Provide the list of records for destruction to your principal and obtain their approval to destroy the records.

Save the principal's approval to destroy the records. This should be saved with other documents relating to the management of your school's records, for example, in the same digital folder or location as your records listing/s.

For a pro-forma email to send to your principal, refer to:

- Records destruction pro-forma email (staff login required)

Step 4 — Destroy records

Securely destroy the records using a secure (locked) recycling bin.

Keep a list of all the records you have destroyed, including the date the destruction took place. This should be saved with other documents relating to the management of your school's records, for example, in the same folder or location as your records listing/s.

Definitions

Normal Administrative Practice

Working papers, drafts, duplicate copies of records stored elsewhere, short-term facilitative records (such as phone messages), and unimportant records such as unsolicited 'junk mail' which may be destroyed without approval once administrative use has ended.

Permanent records

A public record with enduring value to the Victorian community that must be transferred to the State Archives when no longer needed by the school.

Public records

Work-related records in any format or media made or received by staff or volunteers in Victorian government schools.

Temporary records

A public record that is required to be kept for a specific period of time for legislative or other requirements, before it can be destroyed.
